PageStore

The reliable platform to send and share your ad copy

Adstream's PageStore secures the integrity of your files being sent to publishers, providing fast and efficient transmission, with full tracking until completion.

It's directly linked to QuickPrint Pro which means when you have completed validation and are ready to send, you can select and send completed ads all in one go, without spending hours uploading individually.

PageStore is also perfect for distributing large colour volume ads. Once they are delivered, PageStore will keep a digital library of all your archived jobs, making it easy to organise and archive your work.

The PageStore application uses FTP protocol to automatically push ads to their destinations, meaning transfer is incredibly fast.

Connecting to publishers has never been easier. With PageStore's tracking capabilities you can send and receive alerts and have immediate visibility of when your publisher has accepted and downloaded your ad copy.
